Newall Green Primary School Writing Curriculum

Intent:

The intent of this policy is to outline the school's approach to promoting and developing writing skills among students at Newall Green Primary School. It is our expectation that every child will leave our school with the skills of a proficient writer who is able to express their thoughts and ideas confidently and creatively through the use of the written word. Throughout their time at Newall Green Primary School, children develop these skills by exploring a whole range of different genres, with a focus on exploring a range of models of excellence and using these to guide the drafting and editing process.

Many children within Newall Green Primary School start school with lower than average Language skills. We know that a number of factors contribute to the development of writing skills including the child's own speaking skills, vocabulary knowledge, grammar knowledge, understanding of sentence structure and their fine motor skills. Our aim is to support all learners and create writers who:

- have the ability to write with fluency and develop an author's voice
- can write for a particular purpose and intended audience
- can understand how language works by looking at its patterns, structures and origins
- can think about the impact they want their writing to have on the reader and knows how they will achieve this
- have a sophisticated bank of vocabulary and an excellent knowledge of writing techniques to extend details or description
- can structure and organise their writing to suit the genre they are writing and include a variety of sentence structures
- display excellent transcription skills that ensure their writing is well presented, punctuated, spelled correctly and neat.
- re-reads, edits and improves their writing so every piece of writing they produce is their very best and even better than the last.
- can write with fluent and legible joined handwriting.

Implementation

The focus in our literacy teaching at Newall Green Primary School, is to provide high quality literacy lessons which promote outstanding progress and the children's love for learning.

The daily writing lessons aim to develop writing skills so that teachers can identify areas for skills development and adjust their teaching appropriately. We bring composition, fluency, handwriting, spelling, punctuation and grammar together to develop children's writing skills.

The core concepts for Writing:

Core Concepts in Writing
Composition Composition is the way the writer assembles words and sentences to create coherent and meaningful work. It drives the writing process which signals writers to the conscious and considered creation of texts. It consists of planning and rehearsing, drafting or composing, editing and improving and publishing or performing. Research suggests that cumulatively rereading work to establish the flow and direction and drilling down to the smallest parts of composition allows for a sharp attention of details. Teacher demonstration of each stage of this process is crucial to children becoming fluent writers.	Fluency Fluency in writing gives the individual the skills and power to manipulate grammar and vocabulary choices, sentence structures and organisational features with the reader in mind. The internalised ‘sense of a reader’ supports a pupil to make appropriate and powerful choices and an ability to continually assess the impact of their work in relation to the audience and purpose. The children are taught a variety of techniques to aid fluency including the use of senses, imaginative and detailed description, varying sentence structure, ambitious vocabulary, adverbials and many more. An experienced writer will transform their writing using a range of these techniques in a variety of contexts	Handwriting Effective writing skills are dependent on developing handwriting skills in order to facilitate the higher order skills of content and creativity. Pupils who have not mastered this essential skill are unable to fulfil their potential in tasks that require handwriting and as a consequence they become frustrated and disenchanted or just quietly underachieve. By effectively teaching handwriting we produce enthusiastic and efficient hand writers who can convey ideas, thoughts and feelings on to paper and thus fulfil their potential as communicators.
Spelling Writing down ideas fluently depends on effective transcription: that is, on spelling quickly and accurately through knowing the relationship between sounds and letters (phonics) and understanding the morphology (word structure) and orthography (spelling structure) of words. Learning to spell helps to cement the connection between the letters and their sounds and learning high frequency “sight words” to mastery level improves both reading and writing. The correlation between spelling and reading comprehension is high because both depend on a common denominator: proficiency with language. The more deeply and thoroughly a student knows a word, the more likely they are to recognise it, spell it, define it, and use it appropriately in speech and writing.	Punctuation Punctuation is both an authorial and secretarial element of writing. It consists of the use of standard symbols, spaces, capitalisation and indentation to help the reader understand written text. It provides the conventional framework for sentence structure. Ambiguous, unpunctuated sentences can change the meaning and confuse the reader. Effective teaching of punctuation enables writers to organise a text, generate coherent sentences and make grammar and vocabulary choices. A deeper understanding can then be established when children use punctuation accurately alongside syntax variation; they can then manipulate sentences to create flare and fluency.	Grammar Grammar is powerful; it is grammar that gives sense to language. It enables young writers to explore the infinite choices available to them in shaping creative stories and building critical, effective texts.

The curriculum is mapped using these core concepts. We plan for progression using the key points outlined in the impact section below. Lesson content is planned towards these progression points and follows the model of direct instruction, shared and modelled practice before culminating in independent practice and mastery. Specific knowledge is acquired through the knowledge organisers in each curriculum area and unit of study to ensure broad and balanced coverage and as a tool for children to add to, revise and structure that knowledge.

Subject Delivery

Structure of a Literacy Lesson

Writing is taught daily for an hour per day in KS1 and KS2 which also includes grammar, handwriting and spelling. Grammar is incorporated into the writing lessons. Handwriting and spelling are taught discretely. Spelling practice is also an expectation of home learning.

Structure of a Literacy Lesson

Not every Literacy lesson will follow the same structure and this would depend on the outcomes for that lesson. Below is an example of the structure of a Literacy lesson where there is a writing outcome expected.

Starter	Main teaching	Guided Writing	Independent Writing	Feedback and Reflection
Opportunity for pupils to act upon feedback from previous lesson. Starter should usually be no more than 10 minutes. Usually, this will be the Flashback Four (see below) but, where appropriate, this may be editing their previous work or a specific misconception based upon the whole class feedback sheet from the previous lesson.	Teacher introduces the topic of the lesson and teaches the necessary content to support the outcome. AFL, through techniques such as questioning, talk partners and mini whiteboards, used throughout the main teaching to gauge understanding, celebrate successes and target teaching and support. Teacher uses modelled writing to demonstrate the writing process while thinking aloud. This provides pupils with a clear framework and guides them in how to plan and structure their writing although this should not be copied by the children.	At this stage, teacher supports targeted children and will 'guide' the group through the part of the writing process that everyone else is focused upon. The focus should be tailored to the specific writing targets or needs for that group. Teacher should act as an aid, reminding pupils of their targets, but the children should be doing most of the thinking and writing. It is a scaffolded bridge from dependence towards independence.	Some pupils will move straight to independent writing. At this point, pupils are now given the opportunity to work independently to achieve the outcomes for that lesson. They should be encouraged to refer back to their writing targets, the lesson outcomes and resources such as the working wall, checklists, word banks or planning frames to support them at this stage.	This should not just happen at the end of a lesson but where appropriate throughout the Literacy lesson. Opportunity for pupils to share their work with a partner or class boosts their confidence, celebrates success and encourages collaborative learning. Teacher provides constructive feedback to help pupils reflect and understand what they have done well and what could be improved.

Flashback Four

Should be adapted to suit your class and based upon your assessment of writing.

- Two quick fire SPAG questions to be answered on a whiteboard.
- An oral sentence based on an image.
- A dictation sentence to practice handwriting (either in Literacy books or on handwriting sheets)

Writing process:

Writing is centred on a high quality text that captures the children's interest from the outset. Children within Newall Green Primary School are taught to plan, draft, revise, edit, evaluate and publish their writing. Each of the elements is important in the production of a finished piece of writing. Effective teaching will often focus on particular aspects of this process, e.g. planning a story, an explanation, an argument, or revising a draft to change or improve it. At regular intervals, all children should have experience of developing a piece of writing through the whole process.

Planning will follow a three-phase cycle. Phase one will introduce the text to the children through a hook and they will generate ideas. Phase two will consist of SPaG lessons related to the end product, planning and drafting work. In phase three, children edit and uplevel their work, before finally publishing in phase four to celebrate their work.

Three phase Cycle

Children within Newall Green Primary School are taught to plan, draft, revise, edit, evaluate and publish their writing. Each of the elements is important in the production of a finished piece of writing. Effective teaching will often focus on particular aspects of this process, e.g. planning a story, an explanation, an argument, or revising a draft to change or improve it. At regular intervals, all children should have experience of developing a piece of writing through the whole process.

Planning will follow a three-phase cycle. Phase one will introduce the text to the children through a hook. They will analyse the key features of the genre and what makes it a successful piece of writing. Phase two will consist of SPaG lessons related to the end product and planning. In phase three, children will write their own piece after opportunities of modelled, shared and guided writing. Through every writing opportunity, children are expected to review and edit their work as part of an ongoing process. This may be supported by an adult to help improve their piece (year group dependent).

Phase 1
Introduction to the text

Start each unit with a hook to engage and inspire the children. Teacher written WAGOLL (what a good one looks like) used to identify the features using the box success criteria. These features are identified on the unit cover sheet which is referred to throughout the unit. Use talk for writing opportunities to let the children explore the text and characters. Planned writing opportunities through identifying the steps necessary to get to the end point. Children are immersed in the text through a variety of techniques e.g. drama work (role play, role on the wall, conscience alley), research and class discussions

Phase 2
Planning and drafting

These lessons are the building blocks to the final piece. Using the end point, the necessary steps are planned to support children to develop the knowledge, skills and understanding to write independently. Using the Sue Palmer planning templates, children plan their writing, using the box success criteria and WAGOLL to support. Teacher modelling is vital and teachers talk through the writing process modelling their conscious choices as writers. Teachers use combination of shared writing, demonstrations joint composition and guided writing to support pupils to draft their writing, working towards their end point. SPAG is fed through each of the writing opportunities, using the text features and yearly overview.

Polishing and editing

Teachers will have read each piece of writing and completed a whole class feedback sheet in order to provide whole class and individual feedback. Good examples are used as further WAGOLLs and celebrate children's work. Editing process is modelled through editing stations and teachers use marking to identify specific areas for development. Move towards children editing their writing independently. Children will have the opportunity, each half term, to publish their writing and share this with a wider audience such as their class, year group or members of SLT.

Start in the center of the Box Success Criteria, as a class, write the purpose of your final piece and who the reader will be.

On the next level, children need to identify what effects the text needs to have on the reader.

In the success criteria section, children will put the features specific to the genre they are writing. They will then highlight these in a WAGOLL written by the teacher.

The last level is vocabulary. Children must find subject related vocabulary or key words which are specific to each year group and text.

Modelled / shared writing

We use shared writing as it is a powerful teaching strategy and the principal means of teaching. We plan that shared writing is continued into purposeful writing tasks through which children apply their new learning. We do this because it allows teachers to:

- work with the whole class, to model, explore and discuss the choices writers make at the point of writing (rather than by correction), demonstrating and sharing the compositional process directly
- make the links between reading and writing explicit by reading and investigating how writers have used language to achieve particular effects, and using written texts as models for writing e.g. through imitation and innovation in the early stages to understanding and using underlying structures and principles towards the end of Key Stage 2;
- scaffold some aspects of writing, e.g. the spelling and transcribing, to enable children to concentrate on how to compose their writing, e.g. through the choice of words or phrases and ways of constructing sentences to achieve particular purposes or effects;
- focus on particular aspects of the writing process: planning, composing, revising, editing and redrafting;
- introduce children to appropriate concepts and technical language as a means of discussing what writers do and internalising principles to apply in their own work; Introduction and rationale.
- provide an essential step towards independent writing by helping children to understand and apply specific skills and strategies.

When we plan for shared writing we make sure that we;

- agree how the audience and purpose of the writing task will determine the structure, grammatical features and content;
- use the specific objectives from the text, sentence or word level work;
- rehearse sentences before writing them down. (In this way pupils are more likely to learn how to compose in sentences. This habit can also help pupils to 'get it right' first time as sentences are orally revised before being committed to the page.);
- encourage the automatic use of basic punctuation;
- constantly and cumulatively reread to gain a flow from one sentence into another – as well as checking for possible improvements or errors;
- discuss and explain why one decision might be preferable to another;
- pause during the writing to focus discussion upon the specific objective but, otherwise, move the rest of the composition on quickly so that pupils' attention is not lost;
- take suggestions from pupils who will make effective contributions, but also ask pupils who may struggle, in order to check misconceptions and provide further opportunities for explanation. These pupils should be specifically checked up on when they are using dry-wipe boards to assure the quality of their writing. Where a small group remains uncertain they may be targeted as a guided group;
- make the occasional deliberate error to hold pupils' attention and focus on common errors or an error related to the specific objective being taught.
- clearly focused upon one or two specific teaching objectives at sentence and text level;

Guided Writing

We use guided writing to: support children in planning and drafting their own work; to revise and edit work in progress; to provide differentiated support for particular groups.

It should take place in every classroom and the teacher should work with a different group each lesson. The teacher will 'Guide' the group through the part of the writing process that everyone else is focused upon. For example, if the class are working on the 'opening' to a story, then the guided session will also focus on guiding the group through writing their openings.

Teacher supports children to compose their ideas and teacher models a section of writing. The teacher helps children remind themselves of targets, progress points and writing processes. The main point about guided work is that the children should be doing most of the thinking and writing. It is a scaffolded bridge from dependence towards independence.

Independent writing

Independent writing is planned for so that it is focused and challenging. Careful planning allows a flow from whole class work in shared writing and be scaffolded at different levels according to children's needs. Teaching Assistants may be used to reinforce the skills needed to complete the task but the aim is for the child to be as independent as possible.

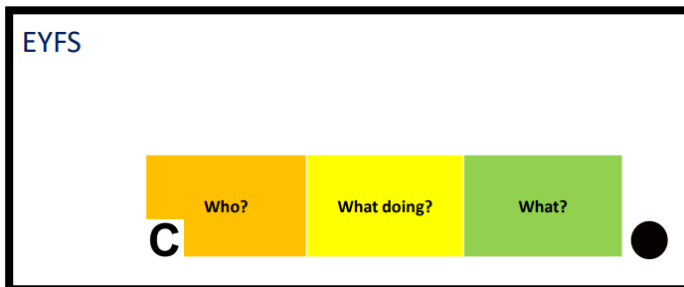

Teacher's divide their time between guided group work and general supervision of work by others. The more focused and structured nature of this kind of writing gives children more control and success in writing and enables the teacher to monitor and support more effectively. The plenary session at the end of the lesson is an opportunity to

Colourful Semantics

Colourful semantics uses colour-coding to help a young person learn the important elements of a sentence and how to join them in the correct order. Colourful Semantics is a system for colour coding sentences according to the role of different words. It can help children to break down sentences and understand the individual meaning of each word and its role in the sentence. It can help children to better understand word order. Children can use colourful semantics to build up meaningful, well-structured sentences.

Children are introduced to colourful semantics during the nursery year and this continues through the rest of school. It aims to develop and consolidate the understanding of 'wh-' questions, e.g. 'who?', 'what?', 'where?'. Colourful semantics uses specific colours and shapes that must be followed:

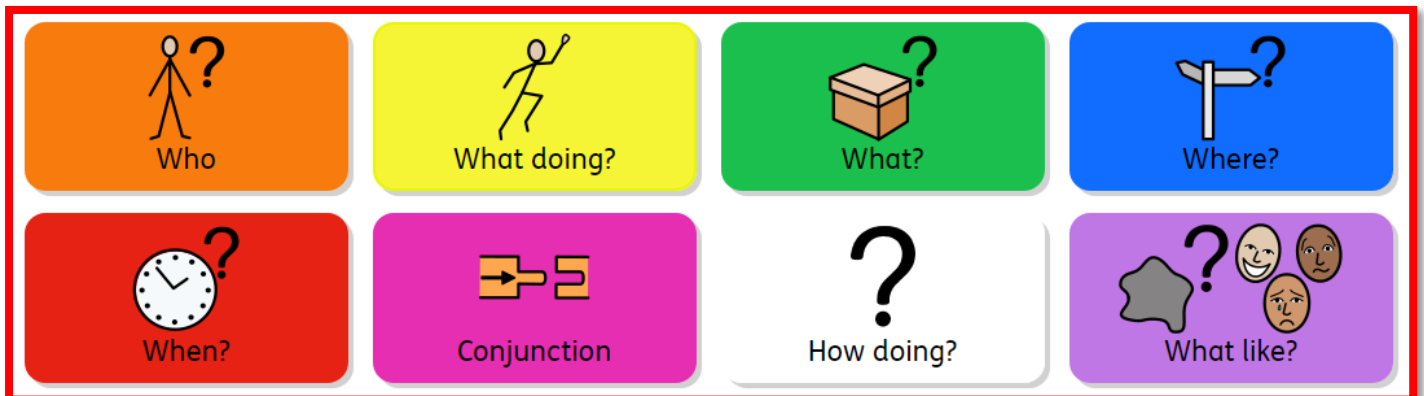

- who? = orange
- doing what? = yellow
- what? = green
- where? = blue
- when? = brown
- to whom? = pink
- what like? = cloud shape
- whose? = star shape

Below are the suggested overviews for each year group. To be used as a guide as this is not a definitive list.

Colour Blindness

To support pupils with colour blindness, the use of secondary indicators such as the words and visual symbol for each colour is used alongside the individual adaptations made based on the needs of each individual.

Marking

Effective marking is key to supporting children to develop their writing skills. It should go beyond correcting mistakes and instead provide meaningful feedback that guides their progress. Feedback should be positive and constructive in order to take them forward in their learning and should refer specifically to the learning objective; class targets and the child's individual targets. Staff will be expected to adhere to the following guidelines to ensure that marking is a positive tool for improving children's performance.

Marking should be specific and targeted. Instead of simply noting errors, we should highlight what the student has done well alongside areas for improvement. For instance, if a child has used vivid vocabulary or created a strong opening, acknowledging these strengths can boost their confidence and motivate them. Alongside this, constructive suggestions for improvement—like varying sentence structure or developing ideas further—help them understand how to refine their writing.

In literacy, the whole class feedback sheet is used to inform teaching. For the marking to be meaningful, it is vital that pupils are given the opportunity to respond to and act upon their feedback. Specific Literacy marking requirements are listed below – please see the marking policy for more detail.

- Feedback should be specific and targeted with next steps focused on their individual writing targets as well as the purpose of the writing.
- Children should be given time and directed to act on their feedback, either at the start of the literacy lesson or at another time where appropriate. regularly be set next steps which they need to use in future work.
- Presentation of work should be checked and teachers should comment on poor presentation and ensure children improve this next time (NOTE: this is not to be confused with pupils who have poor handwriting/motor skills).
- If presentation of work is poor and it is clear that you know a child has not applied maximum effort, then it is appropriate to ask the child to redo part or all of the work.
- Self or peer marking is encouraged, children should be given opportunities to annotate their own work and that of their peers. Where self or peer assessment takes place children should have sensitive comments modelled and be given guidance as to the content of their marking
- Marking of written work is used sensitively and with discretion so that a child can assimilate a limited number of corrections at one time – this will vary according to age and ability.
- Marking codes (see below) should be used in each key stage.
- Marking hot and cold writes – Pink and green highlighters are used to mark hot and cold writes. Green identifies something a child has done well and pink identifies an area of development.
- Hot writes should be marked, with pink and green, at each stage and before editing so that pupils have the opportunity to act upon their feedback.

The whole class feedback sheet should be completed when marking any writing.

This will then focus the quality first and targeted teaching for the next lesson. It provides teachers with the key concepts, successes and misconceptions that need to be addressed and informs planning.

Grammar and Punctuation

We believe that children need to be in control of their grammar choices to improve the precision and the impact of their writing. Technical control of grammar means that pupils can show readers that they have good understanding of the English language and that they are able to manipulate it for their own desired outcomes. Grammar objectives are weaved throughout each writing unit using the overview for that year group to ensure that grammar knowledge is taught and revisited. A grammar overview is used to ensure consistency and progression through school.

Spelling

A multi-strategy approach to spellings based on excellent knowledge of specific spelling rules is the approach we've taken to handwriting. This includes activities that focus on phonological understanding, approaches to secure the long term memory of these spellings (mnemonics) and activities that check their understanding of meaning.

Colourful Semantics

Handwriting

Handwriting is of fundamental importance to educating our pupils because pupils who do not learn to read and write fluently and confidently are, in every sense, disenfranchised.

Handwriting is a physical activity that involves movement and recognition skills that need to be learnt and become part of the automatic cognitive skill set of the pupil. Handwriting is taught either to the whole class or to a group/individual dependent upon the individual learners need. Handwriting is an integral part of good presentation skills and for this reason our pupils are challenged by the teacher to produce a good, well presented end product. Please see handwriting policy.

Foundation Stage

Children are taught a variety of strategies to develop gross motor control prior to formal handwriting. They then move on to developing letter shapes using gross motor movements with the accompanying vocabulary of movement. Children are taught good gross and fine motor control, recognition of pattern, language to talk about shape and movements and the main handwriting movements involved in the three basic letter shapes. Children are introduced to patterns which build on the three basic letter shapes (l, c and r). They make patterns using a variety of media and activities. Dexterity is developed through these activities. A variety of activities are available for the children to encourage practising writing through play with a variety of writing tools and surfaces. Children are introduced to paper and then lined paper for writing letters on. Handwriting will be taught formally when a child is ready using the Read Write Inc approach of picture mnemonics.

Read Write Inc Handwriting Stages

Handwriting is taught in stages linked to the Read Write Inc storybook levels. There are 3 stages from 1 to 3 and picture Mnemonics are used throughout the process. The letters are grouped for formation and then when the letters are formed correctly they are grouped for size and position.

At least 10 percent of the population is left-handed – a slightly higher proportion are males. Writing from left to right is more difficult for left-handed children. All of the activities for developing letter formation are modelled specifically for left-handed children. Left handed children are placed so that they are next to each other or on a corner of a table to avoid knocking elbows with right-handed children. They are taught to slant their work appropriately and to hold the pencil with the correct grip. This avoids the danger of smudging their work.

Resources

Younger children may practise writing on a variety of lined paper as well as worksheets and the media/activities described above. HB pencils are used for writing. Younger children or those with difficulties with their grip will use learner pencils which are fatter and may be triangular. Some children will have grips attached to their pencils. Older children may use handwriting pens or ink pens and use the RWI handwriting paper for Years 1-4 or on Bubble Handwriting Sheets in Years 5 & 6 to practise their handwriting. All handwriting work is stored in a folder in the child's tray and is regularly monitored by the teacher. Handwriting Hero certificates are awarded on a weekly basis to an individual from each class that has shown an improvement in their ability. There will be a minimum of 2 teacher-led handwriting sessions per week.

Developing speed and accuracy

As children progress through the school they are expected to produce longer pieces of writing across the curriculum and therefore need to improve speed and stamina. This is practised through a variety of activities including dictation and timed writing activities.

Using Pens

In key stage 2 when children are able to write neatly in fluent, legible and even-sized joined writing in the school handwriting style consistently over a period of time they are awarded a handwriting pen. The child writes on a certificate which they then take to a member of senior management to confirm they can be awarded a handwriting licence. They are also given a certificate.

Special Educational Needs

Children with SEN may have a provision for handwriting as part of their School or Class Action Plan. The SENCO may advise staff who work with individual or groups of children who have specific needs or difficulties with handwriting.

Interventions

Children who need extra practise with handwriting may be taught outside the classroom by a teaching assistant or other trained adult. This work will be targeted specifically to the child's needs using a variety of the activities outlined above. Some children may be given extra handwriting practise for homework and parents may be actively involved in helping or encouraging their children in this. In KS1 the clever fingers intervention builds up fine motor skills and hand muscles.

Literacy in EYFS

Literacy is one of the seven areas of learning and development in the EYFS Framework. Literacy is one of the specific areas which help strengthen and develop the three prime areas, and ignite children's curiosity and enthusiasm. The educational programme outlined below sets out what we teach in Literacy in EYFS.

Literacy educational programme (taken from EYFS Framework 2024)

It is crucial for children to develop a life-long love of reading. Reading consists of two dimensions: language comprehension and word reading. Language comprehension (necessary for both reading and writing) starts from birth. It only develops when adults talk with children about the world around them and the books (stories and non-fiction) they read with them, and enjoy rhymes, poems and songs together. Skilled word reading, taught later, involves both the speedy working out of the pronunciation of unfamiliar printed words (decoding) and the speedy recognition of familiar printed words. Writing involves transcription (spelling and handwriting) and composition (articulating ideas and structuring them in speech, before writing).

- 1) Planning including teaching sequence
- 2) Colourful Semantics
- 3) Drawing Club
- 4) Assessment of Literacy

1) Planning including teaching sequence

We use half-termly topics in both Reception and Nursery as a starting point to learn new things and fire children's imaginations. Our long-term plans show the topics we usually follow but they are flexible to ensure we also follow the children's interests, school themes or National events. Each half term the staff meet to plan the next topic and choose enhancements based on children's needs. The long-term plans also show how we teach Literacy and the other areas of learning and development. Teachers follow a Literacy medium-term plan which sets out what is taught each term. Teachers then plan in more detail on a weekly basis to plan individual lessons based on children's needs/gaps. All areas of the curriculum are also covered through continuous provision when children learn through play. For Phonics we follow Read, Write, Inc. in Reception and Phase 1 Letters and Sounds in Nursery (children will move onto Read, Write, Inc. in Nursery in the Summer term).

Teachers use the following sequence (developed from EY2P consultancy) to plan and teach their Literacy lessons:

Teaching sequence for Literacy lessons
Phase 1 – Main focus: Shared Reading Speaking and listening e.g. reading text aloud, book talk, discuss characters' actions, discuss favourite characters, word/language circle games, vocabulary development. Word recognition e.g. concepts about print, following left to right & top to bottom, distinguishing between letters & words, phonics, phonological awareness, tricky words, grouping words in different ways.	Phase 2 – Main focus: Shared speaking &amp; listening Speaking and listening e.g. text retelling, using actions, imitate using actions/story map, innovate changing one of the characters, creating a story map, Drama &amp; role play e.g. re-read story focusing on expression/actions, thought tapping – discuss	Phase 3 – Main focus: Shared writing: Focus is on teacher modelling, scribing and supported composition e.g. forming letters correctly, breaking flow of speech into words, orally rehearsing sentences, orally segmenting and writing phonetically, sequencing sentences to tell a story, reading back writing to check it makes sense, handwriting  Shared reading, speaking and listening will also be used.

Understanding text e.g. predictions, spotting main characters, summarising, identifying beginning, middle & end, character profiles.	a character's actions, hot seating, phone conversations, sound tracking.
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--------------------------------------------------------------------------	--

Literacy is planned around quality texts to ensure children are engaged and have a purpose for their writing. We provide opportunities for children to capture their thinking and structure it for a range of purposes and audiences (composition). For example making invitations, writing a shopping list, character profiles, writing a postcard from a character. The teaching sequence demonstrates how we incorporate shared reading, shared speaking and listening and shared writing into lessons. Many lessons will include all three phases but some lessons will focus more on a specific phase depending on the needs of the children.

During shared reading, we show children that print carries meaning. In shared writing we listen to children talking and model how to write down the words they say as this helps them to see how sounds become words on paper. Children then each have one guided writing session per week where they will work on children's next steps in writing. The teacher will support children to compose their ideas and will then model writing. Each group of children may have a different focus depending on their next steps e.g. writing initial sounds with correct graphemes, spelling CVC words, develop oral rehearsal and writing a short sentence. Guided writing is a scaffolded bridge from dependence towards independence.

Structure of an Early Years Literacy lesson

Not every Literacy lesson will follow the same structure depending on the main outcome for the lesson. Lessons will also vary depending on the age of the children as children at the start of the nursery year will spend less time on the carpet than children at the end of Reception.

Whole class carpet input	Continuous Provision to include guided and independent writing groups	Feedback and reflection
The whole class/key group are generally taught by the teacher on the carpet for the main teaching input. This normally lasts approximately 15-20 minutes depending on the content of the lesson and the age of the children. The teacher will introduce the topic of the lesson and teach the necessary content to support the outcome. Shared reading, speaking and listening and writing will take place during the input but the main focus will depend on the outcome of the lesson. Modelled writing will be used to demonstrate the writing process while thinking aloud.	After the main teaching input, most of the children will then learn through play during continuous provision. Each classroom has a writing area and there are also various additional writing opportunities both indoors and outdoors. During the continuous provision session, the teacher will complete a guided writing session with a group of children. The focus should be tailored to the specific writing targets or needs for that group. When deemed appropriate, a group of children will also complete an independent writing task. This normally begins during the Spring term in Reception when the children are moving towards writing captions but some children may be ready for this earlier in the year. Before children are ready to write, guided groups may include large scale mark-making before moving onto using chunky crayons or pencils.	Feedback and reflection generally happens throughout the Literacy lesson but teachers will also do this at the end of a teaching session when appropriate. Teachers provide constructive feedback to help pupils reflect and understand what they have done well and what could be improved.

Drawing Club

Drawing Club is an approach designed by Greg Bottrill that immerses children into a world full of imagination. Reception teach drawing club as one of their Literacy lessons each week. Children observe as the teacher models drawing and then get the opportunity to complete their own drawings. It is through drawing club that we open up the magic world of tales and story to children whilst at the same time enriching their language skills, developing their fine motor skills. One of the most exciting parts of Drawing Club is adding secret symbols and passwords to our drawings. We always draw a secret symbol that can make anything happen! Sometimes we press them and aliens or unicorns become 3 times bigger, pencils turn into chocolate or hair turns multi-coloured! We then add a password to make the secret symbol work. This can be a mark, letter, digraph, a word or a sentence. As children make progress and become more confident with their phonics, their passwords develop and move towards phrases and sentences. Nursery their own version of drawing club called 'story dough' which uses the medium of playdough to tip children into landscape of nonsense, rhyme, language, delicious vocabulary, mark making, make-believe, mathematics and story.

Assessment of Literacy in EYFS

Early Learning Goals

The level of development children should be expected to have reached by the end of the EYFS is defined by the early learning goals (ELGs). The ELGs should not be used as a curriculum or in any way to limit the wide variety of rich experiences that are crucial to child development. Instead, the ELGs should support practitioners to make a holistic, best-fit judgement about a child's development at the end of the EYFS, and their readiness for year 1. When forming a judgement about whether an individual child is at the expected level of development, teachers should draw on their knowledge of the child and their own expert professional judgement. This is enough evidence to assess a child's individual level of development in relation to each of the ELGs. Recorded, written or photographic evidence is not required.

Literacy ELGs

ELG: Comprehension

Children at the expected level of development will:

- Demonstrate understanding of what has been read to them by retelling stories and narratives using their own words and recently introduced vocabulary.
- Anticipate – where appropriate – key events in stories.
- Use and understand recently introduced vocabulary during discussions about stories, non-fiction, rhymes and poems and during role-play.

ELG: Word Reading

Children at the expected level of development will:

- Say a sound for each letter in the alphabet and at least 10 digraphs.
- Read words consistent with their phonic knowledge by sound-blending.
- Read aloud simple sentences and books that are consistent with their phonic knowledge, including some common exception words.

ELG: Writing

Children at the expected level of development will:

- Write recognisable letters, most of which are correctly formed.
- Spell words by identifying sounds in them and representing the sounds with a letter or letters.
- Write simple phrases and sentences that can be read by others.

Impact

The ultimate test of the impact of the curriculum is in whether the students know what you want them to know, and what you think they should know. This has been carefully mapped against the core concepts for writing in the tables on the following pages.

Through our very carefully planned and sequenced writing curriculum, pupils at Newall Green Primary School will make good progress from their own personal starting points. The impact on our children is that they have the knowledge and skills to be able to write successfully for a specific purpose and real audience.

By the end of Key Stage 2, children have developed a writer's craft, they enjoy sustained writing and can manipulate language, grammar and punctuation to maximise the effect on their readers. Most importantly, they will develop a love of writing and be well equipped for the rest of their education in Key Stage 3, 4 and beyond

Assessment

- Children will complete a Cold Write four times a year to inform the future planning for each class. They will be completed in first week of September and then at the end of each term. The same picture stimulus is used throughout school for each Cold Write. The writing needs to be read and marked using the whole class feedback sheet (Appendix 5). From this, class targets can be ascertained and displayed on working walls, to be referred to throughout the next unit. Teachers should use the initial Cold Write to identify handwriting needs for their class and where the starting point for each individual should be.
- Children's work is assessed on an ongoing basis.
- Each day, the children's literacy work is assessed either via teacher feedback (verbal or written), peer marking or self-marking.
- At the end of each unit, the children's work is hard marked using pink and green highlighters.
- Specific feedback is given based on the children's writing targets, in order to help them to improve.
- Formal assessment is undertaken on a half termly basis from Year 1 -6 (see Appendix 3 for Assessment grids)
- Each year group has a set of non-negotiables in which children are encouraged to use in their writing. (See Appendix 4)

Literacy long-term plan for writing - Reception

Literacy Educational Programme: It is crucial for children to develop a life-long love of reading. Reading consists of two dimensions: language comprehension and word reading. Language comprehension (necessary for both reading and writing) starts from birth. It only develops when adults talk with children about the world around them and the books (stories and non-fiction) they read with them, and enjoy rhymes, poems and songs together. Skilled word reading, taught later, involves both the speedy working out of the pronunciation of unfamiliar printed words (decoding) and the speedy recognition of familiar printed words. Writing involves transcription (spelling and handwriting) and composition (articulating ideas and structuring them in speech, before writing). (EYFS Framework 2021)

Year Group Objectives

Punctuation - Demarcate most sentences in their writing with capital letters and full stops, and use exclamation marks and question marks correctly when required. Correctly use commas to separate items in a list. Use the possessive apostrophe (singular) [for example, the girl's book]. Use apostrophes to punctuate contractions mostly correctly

Spelling - Segment spoken words into phonemes and represent these by graphemes, spelling many of these words correctly and making phonically-plausible attempts at others. To be able to spell some/most/many Year 2 key words. Distinguish between homophones and near homophones.

Sentence structure - Sentences with different forms: statement, question, exclamation, command. Expanded noun phrases to describe and specify [for example, the blue butterfly]. Use present and past tense mostly correctly and consistently.

Handwriting - Forms lower and upper-case letters of the correct size relative to others. Write capitals of the correct size, orientation and relationship to one another and to lowercase letters. Use spaces between words that reflects the size of the letters. Start using some of the diagonal and horizontal strokes needed to join letters.

Word - Use co-ordination (e.g. or / and / but) and some subordination (e.g. when / if / that / because) to join clauses. Add suffixes to spell longer words, including; ment, ness, ful, less, ly. Know the meaning of the following words: noun, noun phrase, statement, question, exclamation, command, compound, suffix, adjective, adverb, verb, tense (past, present), apostrophe, comma. Use and understand the grammatical terminology in English Appendix 2 in discussing their writing.

Text cohesion - Develop positive attitudes towards and stamina for writing by:

- writing narratives about personal experiences and those of others (real and fictional)
- writing about real events
- writing poetry

Make simple additions, revisions and corrections to their own writing. Read aloud what they have written with appropriate intonation to make the meaning clear.

Punctuation – Use of inverted commas and other punctuation to indicate direct speech (a comma after the reporting clause, end punctuation within inverted commas, example: The conductor shouted, “Sit down!”), uses commas after fronted adverbials, uses commas to clarify meaning or avoid ambiguity in writing, uses brackets, dashes, or commas to indicate parenthesis, correctly uses full stops, capital letters, exclamation marks, question marks, commas for a list and apostrophes for contracted forms and possessive singular and plural

Spelling - Uses further prefixes and suffixes and understands how to add them, spells words with silent letters, continues to distinguish between homophones and other words which are often confused, be able to spell many year 5/6 spellings, use dictionaries to check the spelling and meaning of words

Sentence structure - Selects appropriate grammar and vocabulary, extends a range of sentences with more than one clause by using a wider range of conjunctions, uses relative clauses beginning with who, which, where, when, whose and that, uses consistent and correct use of tense, sentences are varied to avoid repetition e.g. simple, compound & complex sentences, noun phrases expanded by the addition of modifying adjectives, nouns and preposition phrases (e.g. the teacher expanded to: the strict maths teacher with curly hair)

Handwriting – Writes legibly, fluently and with increasing speed, chooses which shape of a letter to use when given choices and deciding whether or not to join specific letters. Continues to increase legibility, consistency and quality of joined handwriting Y4

Word – Describes settings, characters and atmosphere, integrates dialogues to convey characters and advance the action in narratives, chooses nouns and pronouns appropriately, uses conjunctions, adverbs and prepositions to express time cause, uses modal verbs or adverbs to indicate degrees of possibility, formation of new verbs using prefixes (e.g. re-, dis-, over-, un-, mis-, out-) Standard English forms for verb inflections instead of local spoken forms (e.g. we were instead of we was, or I did instead of I done) Y4

Text cohesion - Begins to use a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs (adverbials (including fronted), pronouns, prepositional phrases), linking ideas across paragraphs using adverbials of time [for example, later], place [for example, nearby] and number [for example, secondly] or tense choices [for example, he had seen her before], uses further organisational and presentational devices to structure text and to guide the reader in non-narratives; e.g. headings, bullet points and underlining, independently proofreads for spelling and punctuation errors, proposes changes to vocabulary, grammar and punctuation, assesses the effectiveness of their own and other's writing

FICTION/NARRATIVE

NON-FICTION

POETRY

Year Group Objectives

Punctuation – Use of inverted commas and other punctuation to indicate direct speech (a comma after the reporting clause, end punctuation within inverted commas, example: The conductor shouted, “Sit down!”), uses commas after fronted adverbials, uses commas to clarify meaning or avoid ambiguity in writing, uses brackets, dashes, or commas to indicate parenthesis, correctly uses full stops, capital letters, exclamation marks, question marks, commas for a list and apostrophes for contracted forms and possessive singular and plural

Spelling - Uses further prefixes and suffixes and understands how to add them, spells words with silent letters, continues to distinguish between homophones and other words which are often confused, be able to spell many year 5/6 spellings, use dictionaries to check the spelling and meaning of words

Sentence structure - Selects appropriate grammar and vocabulary, extends a range of sentences with more than one clause by using a wider range of conjunctions, uses relative clauses beginning with who, which, where, when, whose and that, uses consistent and correct use of tense, sentences are varied to avoid repetition e.g. simple, compound & complex sentences, noun phrases expanded by the addition of modifying adjectives, nouns and preposition phrases (e.g. the teacher expanded to: the strict maths teacher with curly hair)

Handwriting – Writes legibly, fluently and with increasing speed, chooses which shape of a letter to use when given choices and deciding whether or not to join specific letters. Continues to increase legibility, consistency and quality of joined handwriting Y4

Word – Describes settings, characters and atmosphere, integrates dialogues to convey characters and advance the action in narratives, chooses nouns and pronouns appropriately, uses conjunctions, adverbs and prepositions to express time cause, uses modal verbs or adverbs to indicate degrees of possibility, formation of new verbs using prefixes (e.g. re-, dis-, over-, un-, mis-, out-) Standard English forms for verb inflections instead of local spoken forms (e.g. we were instead of we was, or I did instead of I done) Y4

Text cohesion - Begins to use a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs (adverbials (including fronted), pronouns, prepositional phrases), linking ideas across paragraphs using adverbials of time [for example, later], place [for example, nearby] and number [for example, secondly] or tense choices [for example, he had seen her before], uses further organisational and presentational devices to structure text and to guide the reader in non-narratives; e.g. headings, bullet points and underlining, independently proofreads for spelling and punctuation errors, proposes changes to vocabulary, grammar and punctuation, assesses the effectiveness of their own and other’s writing

Punctuation - Use the range of KS2 punctuation mostly correctly: full stops, capital letters, question marks, commas for a list, apostrophes for contraction, apostrophes for possessive singular & plural, exclamation marks, inverted commas, commas for clarity (after fronted adverbials, to clarify meaning or avoid ambiguity in writing), parenthesis (brackets, commas, dashes), semi-colons, colons, dashes, hyphens, and ellipsis.

Spelling - Uses prefixes and suffixes and understands how to add them, spells words with silent letters, distinguish between homophones and other words which are often confused, spells most year 3/4 spellings, and spells most year 5/6 spellings.

Sentence Structure – Selects appropriate grammar and vocabulary to write for a range of purposes and audiences, describes settings, characters and atmosphere in narratives

Handwriting - Maintains legibility in joined handwriting when writing at speed.

Word - Integrates dialogues to convey characters and advance the action in narratives, uses hyphens to clarify meanings in words, and distinguishes between the language of speech and writing and chooses the appropriate register,

Text cohesion - Uses a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs (conjunctions, time and place adverbials & fronted adverbials, pronouns, relative clauses, prepositional phrases), select vocabulary and grammatical structures which suit the piece of writing (contractions in dialogue in narrative, passive verbs, modal verbs), uses verb tenses consistently and correctly, correct level of formality (e.g in narrative, informal for dialogue), and maintains level of formality and precise language throughout writing.

YEAR 6 LONG TERM PLAN (LTP) 2024 - 2025

FICTION/NARRATIVE

NON-FICTION

POETRY

Year Group Objectives

Punctuation - Use the range of KS2 punctuation mostly correctly: full stops, capital letters, question marks, commas for a list, apostrophes for contraction, apostrophes for possessive singular & plural, exclamation marks, inverted commas, commas for clarity (after fronted adverbials, to clarify meaning or avoid ambiguity in writing), parenthesis (brackets, commas, dashes), semi-colons, colons, dashes, hyphens, and ellipsis.

Spelling - Uses prefixes and suffixes and understands how to add them, spells words with silent letters, distinguish between homophones and other words which are often confused, spells most year 3/4 spellings, and spells most year 5/6 spellings.

Sentence Structure – Selects appropriate grammar and vocabulary to write for a range of purposes and audiences, describes settings, characters and atmosphere in narratives

Handwriting - Maintains legibility in joined handwriting when writing at speed.

Word - Integrates dialogues to convey characters and advance the action in narratives, uses hyphens to clarify meanings in words, and distinguishes between the language of speech and writing and chooses the appropriate register,

Text cohesion - Uses a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs (conjunctions, time and place adverbials & fronted adverbials, pronouns, relative clauses, prepositional phrases), select vocabulary and grammatical structures which suit the piece of writing (contractions in dialogue in narrative, passive verbs, modal verbs), uses verb tenses consistently and correctly, correct level of formality (e.g in narrative, informal for dialogue), and maintains level of formality and precise language throughout writing.

As per the EYFS framework, teachers should draw on their knowledge of the child and their own expert professional judgement. Children do not necessarily need to have met every objective to be awarded the N2+/-R/-R= level. Moderation should take place regularly with fellow EYFS practitioners and Year 1 teachers. Please see guidance below taken from EYFS framework.

EYFS framework Oct 2024 – Early Learning Goal judgements

When forming a judgement about whether an individual child is at the expected level of development, teachers should draw on their knowledge of the child and their own expert professional judgement. This is enough evidence to assess a child's individual level of development in relation to each of the ELGs. Teachers should only make judgements based on the criteria that are set out in the ELGs themselves and should not add any additional criteria. The best-fit model requires teachers to consider the whole of each ELG description when making these judgements. Best-fit does not mean that the child has equal mastery of all aspects of the ELG. Each ELG descriptor is written in bullet point form, but this is for presentational purposes only to aid clarity; teachers should not 'tick off' these bullet points one by one but should use their professional judgement to determine whether each ELG in its totality best-fits the child's learning and development. The most accurate picture of the child's overall embedded learning will come from a holistic view of the descriptor. Any internal or peer-to-peer moderation conversations should, as far as possible, be based on the teacher's own knowledge of their children.
